Please join us for the Fall 2015
Patience Essah Africana Studies Lecture Series
Co-sponsored with the RBD Library and Archives

After Mandela: South African Education in the Context of Politics, Business & Race

Informed by first-hand knowledge gained as a Fulbright Scholar in Cape Town, South Africa, Dr. Stacey Nickson, Director K-12 Outreach and Fulbright Specialist at Auburn University, will discuss the impact of current politics, business, and race on South Africa today. Dr. Nickson's presentation will explore whether the post-Mandela politics of the African National Congress (ANC) and the policies of Black Economic Empowerment (BEE) are driving South Africa towards Mandela’s vision or draining the “rainbow nation” of its vitality and viability?

October 29, 2015
3:30 to 4:15

Caroline Marshall Draughon Auditorium, on the ground floor of the Library
Refreshments and conversation follow the presentations